

NEW MEXICO
IS ORGANIZING
ARMY TROOPS

New Mexico has recently been included in the seven western states of the eighth army corps area of the United States and troops are being organized in the state. Four troops of cavalry are being organized, one at Fort Huachuca, one at Santa Fe, and two already organized are being sent to the Mexican border.

The national guard is being rapidly retrained, according to Adj. Gen. James Barr of New Mexico, who was in El Paso Thursday.

Headquarters for a regiment of cavalry are being organized with headquarters at Fort Huachuca. The location for the unit just being decided upon and headquarters for regiments of cavalry are being organized at Fort Huachuca, Santa Fe, and El Paso.

What Is Thanksgiving?

Gratitude for prosperous conditions of our people and for progress made.

The American people as a whole are sincerely thankful for the many electric conveniences which have lessened drudgery in the home. We are thankful that we have been able to contribute to progress in the home by demonstrating for El Pasoans the wonderful work-saving power of electrical appliances. We are at your service. Free demonstrations. Call and see us.
